

Handwritten notes in cursive script, organized into columns by vertical lines. The text is dense and appears to be a list or series of entries, possibly related to a technical or scientific study. The handwriting is consistent throughout, with some variations in line length and spacing. The notes are written on a piece of lined paper with green vertical lines.

Handwritten musical notation on a page with 11 green horizontal lines. The notation consists of rhythmic patterns of vertical strokes and beams, typical of early manuscript notation. The patterns are organized into approximately 11 vertical columns, each containing several lines of notation. Some lines include small checkmarks or other symbols. The notation is dense and fills most of the page.

Handwritten notes in a cursive script, organized into approximately 15 vertical columns. The text is written on lined paper and includes various symbols, checkmarks, and small diagrams. The script is dense and appears to be a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. The columns are roughly parallel to the page's vertical axis, with some columns containing multiple lines of text. The handwriting is fluid and consistent throughout the page.

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho) on lined paper. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are fluid and connected, typical of the cursive style. The text appears to be a collection of phrases or a short piece of prose, possibly related to a specific topic or event, given the date '1.1' written below.

1.1
あ